

Could This Be You?

You are a teacher who spends your days educating young children, one of the most important jobs in our society. You work long days and have many responsibilities.

So why would you want to attend school after a hard day at work?

Professional Development can take you to new places in your career.

What Can Professional Development Do For You?

- Increases income through WAGE$: providers can qualify for incentives of up to $6000 per year.
- Offers opportunities for advancement in your career.
- Improves long-term earning potential.
- Decreases stress by providing strategies designed to make classrooms run more smoothly.
- Provides a sense of professionalism and increases self-confidence.

Tools To Achieve Your Professional Development Goals

- T.E.A.C.H. participation by your facility supports educational costs.
- Online courses are offered for students with a busy schedule.
- Resources are available through Alamance Partnership for Children's Lending Library.
- Lending laptops and textbooks are available at Alamance Community College.
- Professional Development guidance is available through Alamance Community College.

For more information on professional development, please contact:

Wendy Pealo
Professional Development
Coordinator-Early Childhood
336.506.4348
wendy.pealo@alamancecc.edu

ALAMANCE PARTNERSHIP for CHILDREN

